A Note from the Director

September is finally here. Without question, the best month here in Maryland's Coastal Bays.

Not only is the weather spectacular and the crowds diminished, there is an abundance of activities and events to celebrate the sun, the surf and the general atmosphere of living here in the "land of pleasant living".

As you weed your way through all the events and activities that are coming your way this month, I would ask you to pay particular attention to three events featured below that will be held by the Maryland Coastal Bays Program.

Hey, there's no lack of great events to participate in September in the Coastal Bays. We hope you take advantage of these opportunities and consider supporting your local watershed organization to boot.

Marine Debris Plunder

The 2nd Annual Marine Debris Plunder will be held Sunday, September 26th at the West Ocean City boat ramp. Participants had so much fun last year venturing out into the coastal bays by land and by boat, to bring back their "marine debris booty" to the infamous Captain Jack Sparrow.
